GREAT MEETING OF PHYSICIANS HERE LAST EVE

Annual Meeting Of Lee Co. Society Assumes Much Importance

Dixon was host again to a great number of the prominent doctors throughout this part of the country last evening when the Lee county Medical Society held their meeting in the big recreation building at the Dixon state hospital. The programs offered each year are more and more attractive with the result that this is now by far the largest county medical society meeting held in this part of the United States. This big meeting is possible only because we have at Dixon a type of state institution entirely different than those found most anywhere else in the country. The type of patient committed to the Dixon state hospital are very much more interesting to all physicians than are the various types of mental cases confined in other state institutions. During the past year the Illinois legislature enacted a law providing hospital care at Dixon state hospital for "encephalitis," or "sleeping sickness" cases and a number of these cases have since been committed to this hospital, where a special study of this dreadful disease is being conducted. A report of the progress made was a part of the interesting program last evening.

Huge Audience
The audience was such a large one that it was necessary to hold the meeting in the largest building on the grounds, which is the recreation building. This had been beautifully decorated with wall hangings made by patients and many of them are beautiful scenes and would be almost priceless if held in a private collection. The tulips which were used to decorate the tables and the stage were also made by patients and had been waxed so (Continued on Page 5)

HUGE NEW TAX LEVY PLANNED BY ROOSEVELT "Breakfast" Tax May Be Imposed To Pay Big Bond Issue

Washington, May 12—(AP)—President Roosevelt's industrial control-public works program, designed to open up vast fields of employment, was to be presented to his cabinet today for approval before going to congress next week. The proposed legislation, including provision for a $3,300,000,000 bond issue for public construction and authority for industry to enter agreements designed to stabilize production, improve wages and better working conditions, was virtually completed last night by the President's special committee. The measure will carry a new tax levy to pay interest and sinking fund requirements on the bond issue which will be used to finance federal, state and municipal projects. A sales tax described as a "re-employment tax" or a "breakfast tax" on coffee and tea has been suggested as possible forms, but some opposition already has developed. The total amount of the tax has been estimated at $200,000,000.

Democrats Held Judicial Rally

The meeting at the Armory hall last evening was attended by 250 Democratic workers from the Sixth Supreme Court district, the meeting being presided over by Attorney Sherwood Dixon, chairman of the Democratic senatorial committee. Attorney Elwyn R. Shaw of Freeport, candidate for judge of the Supreme Court; Attorney Albert Hanneken of this city, A. H. Manus of Freeport and Frank Sheehan of Galena were the principal speakers, the latter three being candidates for the Circuit Court bench in this district.

It was decided to conduct a tour of Lee County next Tuesday and the four judicial candidates accompanied by members of the County Central committee will visit the various towns and villages of the county.

Chicago Professor In Auto Accident West Of Sterling

The life of Professor Arthur H. Compton of the Physics Department of the University of Chicago and co-winner in 1927 of the Nobel Prize for his researches on cosmic rays, was endangered when his car skidded into another machine on the Lincoln Highway, west of Sterling yesterday afternoon. However, Prof. Compton emerged from the accident virtually unscathed and was able to fill a speaking engagement at Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Iowa, last night. Mrs. Compton and their son, Arthur H., Jr., received cuts and bruises and were taken to the Morrison hospital. Their automobile was demolished. Prof. Compton is scheduled to speak at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, tonight.

Boy Of 16 Convicted Of Murder

New York, May 12—(AP)—A fight to overturn the verdict that convicted Harry Murch, 16, (shown above manacled between Joseph Murphy, left, and Dominick LaBlanca, right (both charged with murder) of killing a 12-year-old chum was mapped by defense counsel today.

Murch stared stolidly last night when a jury—including ten fathers—adjudged him guilty of second degree murder for luring Willie Bender to a deserted house, binding and gagging him on on pretense of playing a game, and then plunging a knife into his heart. The state said he wanted to get even with Willie for "snitching."

Murch faces a sentence of 20 years to life. His mother fainted in the court room last night and was carried out. Defense counsel, accusing detectives of keeping Murch without food from 4 P. M. until 3 A. M., when he signed a confession, said:

"In the eyes of God, he's a baby." But the judge said:

"A defendant over 12 years of age is presumed to be responsible for his acts."

Horner's Moratorium Bill Blocked In House On Orders Of Speaker

Roe Keeps Measure In Committee As Un-constitutional

Springfield, Ill., May 12—(AP)—The mortgage moratorium bill, written by the House Judiciary committee and backed by Governor Horner has run into a snag that threatens its passage. Speaker Arthur Roe of Vandalia, when asked today in the presence of the Governor why the bill had been permitted to remain on third reading for more than a week without being called up for passage, "I'm keeping it there, I'm opposed to the bill, as is nearly every other lawyer in the House. The bill is unconstitutional. It is merely a gesture. I accept full responsibility for not letting it come up for a vote."

The bill was written by the Judiciary committee as a substitute for the numerous bills of a similar nature. The committee is composed entirely of lawyers. One of their primary purposes in writing a bill as a substitute for the other measures was to keep it within constitutional bounds.

When Speaker Roe made his statement the Governor interposed to object to the Speaker's action: "Why, Mr. Speaker," he said, "that bill should pass."

"It's merely a gesture," the Speaker repeated. "And it is unconstitutional."

The Governor and the Speaker then continued their conversation without newspaper men being present.

Banker Is Guilty Of Manslaughter

Altus, Okla., May 12—(AP)—Convicted of first degree manslaughter and sentenced to 20 years in prison for the slaying of Bank Examiner W. C. Ernest, J. H. Brock, headrick banker, planned today to seek his freedom on bond pending appeal. A jury of cotton farmers returned its verdict last night, more than 24 hours after receiving the case.

Brock started fixated at the jury as the verdict was read. His wife sobbed. The banker then was taken back to the jail cell he has occupied since the fatal shooting March 24 in the Citizens State Bank of Headrick, of which Brock was president. The shooting occurred a few minutes after Ernest had closed the bank. Brock pleaded self-defense.

Russell Mason Is New Band Director

At a meeting of the Dixon Civic band commission held last evening Russell H. Mason of this city was selected to direct the band for the ensuing season. Director Mason, who has been solo flutist in the organization, was selected from a long list of applicants, local and from all parts of the country. His musical ability, coupled with his popularity with the members of the band, should go toward giving Dixon a splendid musical organization. Director Mason will conduct the regular weekly rehearsal Monday evening at 7:30 at the Rosbrook hall.

Only Nine Days In Last 41 Were Without Rainfall

Chicago, May 12—(AP)—The timidity of spring was blamed today by Nat C. Murray, veteran local crop analyst, for a delay of at least nine days in planting in every state of the Union except North Carolina.

Murray said he compiled his figures from widespread weather data which indicated that so far as the northern central states were concerned there hadn't been a spring as backward as the present one since 1926 and 1927.

In the corn belt excessive rainfall has taken about two per cent from the farmers' "average chances" of producing a good crop. Murray declared he based his calculations over a 10-year period. However, Murray said he was not particularly worried for in 1925 crops were fair despite a more prolonged spring delay in planting than has been experienced so far this year.

Meanwhile, Illinois awoke today under generally overcast skies and with showery forecast. Records showed that Chicago has been rained on every day this month except May 4 and that in the last 41 days rain has fallen 32 days.

Devine's Charges Called Inaccurate

Chicago, May 12—(AP)—President Edward E. Barrett of the University of Illinois Board of Trustees declared today that charges by State Rep. John P. Devine concerning the handling of university funds were "unfair and inaccurate."

Barrett stated that deposits of university funds have been protected not only by surety bonds, but also by an equal amount of government securities. Regarding expenditure of more than $200,000 for a home for the president of the university, he said:

"Not the amount of money expended but the value received is the test of the propriety of such expenditures. The lavish expenditures of three years ago will serve for a century or more."

Barrett said that the board has left more than $2,800,000 in funds for the past two years, and that it will revert to the State Treasurer on July 1.

State Jersey Clubs Meet Here Saturday

The annual picnic of the Illinois Jersey Cattle Club will be held tomorrow at the Reynoldswoods farm west of the city. The program, which is an extensive one, will start at 10 o'clock in the morning when about 30 judging teams composed of 4-H club members or vocational agriculture teams from high schools of this locality will judge cattle taken from the pure bred Jersey herd at the Reynoldswoods farms. Pure bred Jersey breeders and importers from throughout the central west will be in attendance at the event.

President Signs Farm Aid-Money Inflation Bill And Issues Plea To Holders Of Farm Mortgages

George Peek, Moline, Made Administrator Of New Law

BULLETIN

St. Paul, May 12—(AP)—The National farm strike will start tomorrow despite President Roosevelt's action in signing the farm bill and urging farm mortgage creditors to abstain from foreclosures. Milo Reno, of Des Moines, president of the National Farmers Holiday Association, said here today.

Washington, May 12—(AP)—President Roosevelt put quickly into law today the farm relief-currency inflation measure with a simultaneous appeal to mortgage creditors to abstain from foreclosures pending operations of the legislation.

He signed the all-inclusive bill in the presence of congressional leaders and government heads who will administer it.

He was ready to act to use the power to increase commodity prices and expand credit in his words—"when, as, and if it may be necessary."

The bill includes provision for refinancing of agricultural mortgages on a lower interest rate.

Plea To Creditors
Promising to administer this promptly, the President in a statement, asked mortgage creditors to "abstain from bringing foreclosure proceedings" until the elaborate machinery for reducing agricultural debts can be put into effect.

While waiting to receive the bill from Capitol Hill, he and the distinguished group with him chatted happily over the success of the long legislative contest over the legislation.

In accordance with the policy of putting provisions of the farm bill into execution as soon as possible, Secretary Wallace formally designated George N. Peek of Moline, Ill., Chief Administrator of the measure.

Peek Takes Office
The act took place a short while after the signing, and Peek will take his oath of office almost at once.

A farm equipment manufacturer and student of farm problems, he will carry out the provisions of the sweeping bill designed to raise farm prices after the president and the secretary of agriculture decide the exact course to pursue.

Peek's title is administrator of the agricultural adjustment act. He was a Republican until 1928 and broke away from the party to support Alfred E. Smith because of dissatisfaction with the Republican administration's attitude toward farm relief proposal.

Unemployed Vets Offered Jobs In Forest Work Camps

Washington, May 12—(AP)—Jobs in forest work camps have been offered by President Roosevelt to unemployed war veterans, many of whom are encamped here now demanding bonus payment.

The Chief Executive directed Robert F. Pichner, head of the project, to prepare regulations which would admit 25,000 to the administration's forest conservation corps. At the same time the President and Lewis W. Douglas, Budget Director, conferred with Democratic leaders in Congress on the possibility of action at this session on a measure for immediate payment of the bonus. No conclusions have been reached.

Police estimated that 800 former soldiers have arrived here as part of the 1933 bonus-seeking army. The peak number last year, police said, was 18,000.

Fear Gandhi Will Not Survive Fast

Poona, India, May 12—(AP)—The Mahatma Gandhi began the fifth day of his projected three weeks' fast today too weak to move without being carried.

Fears that he may die increased since he is determined the fast protesting the treatment of the lowest Indian caste, the "untouchables," will not end before noon May 29. He was too weak today even to raise his arms to operate his ever-present spinning wheel. His physician said he has failed in health more rapidly than was expected.

Asks Roosevelt His Plans on Farm Loans Moratorium

St. Paul, May 12—(AP)—President Roosevelt has been asked by Milo Reno, National Farmers' Holiday Association president, whether he intends to declare a moratorium on farm foreclosures and executions on chattel mortgages.

LINCOLN LORE—AN ANNIVERSARY

Today is the anniversary of an event of local importance and also of importance to the whole United States. One hundred and one years ago today Abraham Lincoln, captain of a company of Illinois volunteers, rode into Dixon to offer himself in the service of his country—the first of the great service he was destined to give this nation throughout his life.

You would know that Lincoln would be a good soldier. The record shows it, because Father John Dixon, who accompanied the troops in their campaign against Blackhawk and his red warriors, recorded it thus: "In all the marches, whenever the forces approached a grove or a depression in which an Indian ambush might be concealed, and the scouts were selected to examine the cover, Lincoln was the first man selected. While many, as they approached the place of expected ambush, found an excuse to discount to adjust girths or saddles, Lincoln's saddle was always in perfect order."

Lincoln's company was released on May 27th, at the mouth of the Fox River. Two days later he re-enlisted in the company of Captain Elijah Illes. Enlistment terms were short and in the middle of June Captain Illes and his company returned to Dixon's Ferry and Lincoln was mustered out. A few days later, on June 20th, to be exact, Lincoln was mustered in again, this time by Major Anderson, as a member of an independent company under Captain Jacob M. Early. In later years, when Lincoln was President of the United States, after Fort Sumpter had been fired upon by the rebellious south and Anderson, the commanding officer had evacuated the fort, he visited the President. Lincoln refers to this visit and reports that he said to Major Anderson, "Major do you remember ever meeting me before?" Anderson replied, "No, I have no recollection of ever having had that pleasure." Lincoln replied, "My memory is better than yours. You mustered me into the United States service as a high private of the Illinois volunteers at Dixon's Ferry in the Black Hawk war."

Lincoln's service in the army continued until July 10, 1832, when he was mustered out at White Water, Wis. History records that his horse was stolen that same night and that he had to walk most of the several hundred miles to his home at New Salem, Ill. That terminated Lincoln's life in and around Dixon so far as the Black Hawk war was concerned, although he visited this city a number of times in later years.

Dixon, so far as Lincoln and Lincoln lore is concerned, has far more historical interest than any other spot on the entire nation—spanning Lincoln Highway.

Black Hawk's band was finally broken up and Black Hawk was captured and the government had the rebellious chieftain escorted through a tour of the eastern part of the United States, where he could see the immensity of the population and the futility of trying to oppose the vast power of wealth and millions of white men with his little group of poorly equipped warriors.

Lincoln lore is of absorbing interest to students of history all over the civilized world. The part that Dixon plays in Lincoln's history has never been given the prominence its importance deserves.

Butler Urged Republicans To Back Alf. Smith

New York, May 12—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia University and a leading Republican, was on record today as favoring election of Alfred E. Smith, Tammany Sachem, as mayor of New York City. He hurled his suggestion like a verbal bomb into a gathering of Republican district leaders and party workers last night.

"Why not make the election unanimous?" Butler asked in proposing Smith's name as a fusion candidate. The audience gasped and then there was applause. The Herald-Tribune, a Republican paper, says has left the way open for the enactment of legislation that will meet the objections found by the court, and thus enable the state to fulfill its obligations to the unemployed.

Protest Follows
After the first shock of the Butler announcement had passed Alfred E. Schwartz, Republican leader of the 16th Assembly District, assumed spokesmanship for the opposition.

"Al Smith is a product of Tammany, a Sachem of Tammany, and I wouldn't take him on a silver platter," he declared and the hall resounded with applause.

Butler's advocacy of Smith for Mayor was not the first suggestion of his name for a fusion candidate from the other side of the political fence. Only the night before Fiorello H. LaGuardia, independent Republican, announced that if fusionists did not select Smith as their candidate to defeat the Tammany choice, who is generally expected to be Mayor John P. O'Brien, he would run for the office himself.

Sterling Man Is Called Suddenly

Chicago, May 12—(AP)—William J. Burleigh, 66, ornamental iron manufacturer of Sterling, Ill., died following a heart attack in his room in the Brevoort hotel late last night. His son, R. A. Burleigh, was present. The son said the body would be sent to Sterling today.

NEW SALES TAX BILL IS BEING WRITTEN TODAY

Gov. Horner Says New Bill Will Meet Objections

Springfield, Ill., May 12—(AP)—Governor Horner announced today that the administration is framing a new sales tax bill designed to meet the constitutional requirements outlined by the Illinois Supreme Court.

Speedy enactment of the revised measure will be sought.

In a statement, Horner said: "Having declared the three per cent sales tax unconstitutional solely because of structural defects in the act, the state Supreme Court has left the way open for the enactment of legislation that will meet the objections found by the court, and thus enable the state to fulfill its obligations to the unemployed."

"Therefore, it is the intention of the administration to frame and present to the General Assembly a new sales tax bill that will meet the objections made by the Supreme Court. This will be done as speedily as possible."

"Unnecessary delay must be avoided since the Federal government has made it clear that it does not expect to supply Illinois with relief indefinitely. The Governor said it might be necessary to push the bill through the legislature without an emergency clause. If this is accomplished, the tax would become effective July 1.

Shepard Burnham Died This Morn

Shepard B. Burnham, 82, for many years a valued employee of the Borden Co. at its plant in this city, passed away at his home, 307 W. Everett street, at 7:45 o'clock Thursday evening after an illness of about four weeks duration. Funeral arrangements had not been completed today, and with the obituary, will be published later.

A pair of rats could invite over 30,000,000 descendants or nine generations to their golden wedding anniversary.

BEER RUNNERS HE NAMED SHOT ONE MONTH AGO

The Alleged Conspirator's Testimony Resumed In Dist. Court

BULLETIN

Elizabeth N. J., May 12—(AP)—Max Hassel and Max Greenberg, said by Gaston Means as his trial to have been the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby, were slain April 12. Known as beer racketeers, the men were presumed by police to have been shot to death by gangster enemies.

Washington, May 12 —(AP)—Gaston B. Means testified in District of Columbia Supreme Court today that the Lindbergh baby was stolen by New Jersey liquor runners.

Continuing the story that he began yesterday in testifying in his own behalf, Means said "Max Hassel" and "Max Greenberg" were responsible for the kidnaping. He added that he did not know the two men, but that they had sold beer to servants at the Lindbergh home.

He said "Irving Fenton" described previously by him as one of those responsible for the kidnaping, had told him that Colonel Lindbergh, as a practical joke, on occasions had placed his baby in a closet and told the servants that the baby had been stolen.

Lindbergh's Alleged "Joke"
This joke, said Means, gave the kidnapers the idea of how to take the baby. One of the members of their "ring" did go to the Lindbergh house with beer, picked the baby from its crib and went away, he added.

The former Justice Department agent was telling the story of his own negotiations between Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean, estranged

Gaston Means' Wife Daughter Of Former Prominent Dixonite—

Dixonites find an added interest in the conspiracy trial of Gaston B. Means at Washington, D. C., in the fact that his wife is a daughter of a former Dixon woman, Mrs. Patterson, nee Coleman. The Coleman family lived for many years on West Third street and were very prominent in local social circles. John Coleman was connected with one of the Dixon banking institutions for years.

wife of the former publisher of the Washington Post, and the group he described as the kidnapers. His activities resulted in the present charges that he and Norman T. Whitaker conspired to defraud Mrs. McLean of $35,000.

The returned and volatile former Justice Department agent testified yesterday that he had been shown the baby by one of the kidnapers in Alton, South Carolina.

Told Amazing Story
In an amazing story that frequently brought gasps from a crowded courtroom, Means took almost the entire day Thursday to describe in detail his part in the grim tragedy. Counsel intimated that Means, already convicted of swindling Mrs. McLean out of $104,000, would trace fully today the supposed trail the kidnapers took him from Alton to El Paso, Texas, to Chicago and back to Washington.

Means testified yesterday that he had been shown the baby of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh by one Wellington Henderson, alleged by him to be one of the kidnapers, on the night of March 22, 1932. The baby, Means said, was on the back seat of an automobile driven by Henderson and was being taken to Alton allegedly for delivery to Mrs. McLean upon payment of $100,000 ransom. Henderson was identified by Means as the "head of the Communist Third Internationale" and associated in the Lindbergh kidnaping with a man named Irving Fenton.

Earlier Means had described how two previous attempts to deliver the baby in Washington, D. C., had failed. He testified that on March 8, the baby was taken to the Maryland home of Mrs. McLean and, since she was absent, to the Georgetown home of Colonel Robert Gugeenheim, a friend of the Lindberghs. Means said Gugeenheim had refused to accept the baby.

A year ago today the baby was found dead in a clump of shrubbery within a few miles of Colonel Lindbergh's home.

The Post said today that Norman T. Whitaker, known as "The Fox" in the Means-Lindbergh baby ransom hoax, had once been passed off by Means as "head of the Soviet Secret Police" in the United States.

No Cross Examination
Means completed his story this afternoon and District Attorney Rover refused to cross-examine him.

Means said that he was told by other men with whom he was

Colorado Judge Holds Beer Bill Unconstitutional

Greeley, Colo., May 12—(AP)—Sweeping aside the opinions of some of the ablest constitutional lawyers in Congress who aided in drafting the 32 per cent beer bill, District Judge Claude C. Coffin has declared its passage in violation of the Constitution.

In his decision yesterday, which denied the Greeley Elks Club and Fred N. Fitch, cafe owner, a writ of mandamus which they sought to compel the Greeley city council to issue beer permits, Judge Coffin said the congressional declaration that 32 beer is non-intoxicating is contrary to the "general known physical facts."

Fetch said he may appeal the decision immediately to the state Supreme Court and possibly to the federal courts.

Prohibition Issue To Be Clearly Cut

Springfield, Ill., May 12—(AP)—The prohibition issue will be cleared at the election June 5 of delegates to the state convention which will decide whether Illinois will ratify the proposed repeal amendment to the national constitution.

Fifty delegates are to be elected and 100 names will be on the ballots, divided into one full slate for ratification and one full slate opposed.

When the deadline for filing of nominating petitions came at midnight, only the two coalition slates had been filed. No candidates entered as having no preference on the prohibition question, which was permitted under the new law which called the state convention for July 10.

With only two tickets, voters will be able to use the "party circle" on the ballots.

Water Shortage In Stretcher Is Feared

Stretcher, Ill., May 12—(AP)—Schools were closed, a drinking water shortage threatened, and a large section of Stretcher was under water today after the Vermillion river rose four feet in 24 hours.

The high waters washed away a section of the river's retaining wall. Residents of a dozen homes were taken to safety in rowboats. The flood waters extended for a mile on each side of the river.

Factories closed down, and only the high school had a sufficient water supply to remain open. Arrangements were made to ship in carloads of water from nearby cities.

Firemen and police went on 24 hour duty and Boy Scouts also patrolled the streets. A Red Cross representative from St. Louis arrived to make a survey.

NEWLY EMPLOYED MAN FORGOT MEAL TIMES

Chicago—George William Paul, out of work for some time, was so overzealous when he did get a job that he didn't watch the clock and consequently failed to note when 5 P. M. rolled around. When he did think of going home, he found himself locked in the vaults of the clerk of the Superior Court among files of court documents of former years. Finally, his shouts were heard by a charwoman, who released him from his cell.

WORKLESS MAN ADMITS ATTEMPT AGAINST PENNSY

Threatened To "Blow Up" Trains Unless Paid $75,000

Philadelphia, May 12—(AP)—A bizarre 20-day campaign to extort $75,000 from the Pennsylvania Railroad under threats of blowing up passenger trains is over and James Vanderslice, 32, a pale, undersized truck driver, faces prosecution as its author.

He was captured last night in the climax of several days effort by police to trap the writer of a series of letters which threatened wholesale destruction of trains and which caused a heavy guard to be placed over W. C. Higginbottom general manager of the road's eastern division.

Police said Vanderslice made a complete confession in which he declared his threats were a "bluff" and made only to obtain funds to support his undernourished wife and three children. Vanderslice said he had been unemployed for 18 months.

Find Unpublished Work by Rembrandt

Baltimore, May 12—(AP)—An unpublished pen drawing by Rembrandt has been found in the Garrett collection, owned by Ambassador John W. Garrett and his brother, Robert Garrett.

The discovery was made by Mrs. Adeline Hohme Breckin, Curator of Prints at the Baltimore Museum of Art, who is cataloguing the 20,000 drawings and prints in the collection.

The drawing, "The Angel Departing From the Family of Tobias" is in the collection loaned to the museum by the owners.

They purchased it from James L. Claghorn of Philadelphia, who had bought it from John Neagle of England. Neagle acquired the drawing from the William Carey sale in 1838.

R. R. Valley Group Meeting Enjoyed

The Rock River Valley group meeting of the Ladies Aid society of the M. E. church was largely attended on Tuesday in Rock Falls and the Dixon ladies carried home the honors and gained for attendance. The church having the largest number in attendance gets the banner and there were twenty-four from Dixon. Sterling, being so close to Rock Falls could have been a close competitor but Prophets-town and Amboy were the next closest. There was a good program and an inspiring talk given by the district superintendent, Rev. Hammit of DeKalb. The fall meeting will be Sept. 12th at Erie.

Ill. League Women Voters Advocate Permanent Registration

The Illinois League of Women Voters reports widespread interest in the fact that House Bill 485 dealing with permanent registration has passed second reading. This bill was introduced by Representatives Schnackenberg, Hennery and B. B. Bower and has been amended to apply to cities under the City Election act.

That permanent registration is needed is evidenced by quotations from the Report of the Illinois Commission on Revision of Election Laws, Judge Edmund K. Jardecki of Cook County, Chairman. This report was made to the General Assembly in March 1931 and says in part:

"Methods of registration now in force in Illinois are inadequate, lacking in uniformity, inconvenient to the voters and unnecessarily expensive. It is common knowledge that local precinct registrations and the canvass and revision of precinct registration lists by precinct boards of registry do not prevent padding of the registration lists, do not purge the registration lists of the names of many who die or move away, do not secure an adequate listing of the qualified voters who reside within the precinct, do not prevent election frauds, and do permit or induce local disorders at the polls in connection with challenges of the right to register and vote."

"Permanent registration is the most outstanding recent development in election administration. It is by far the most economical type. The Commission recommends that the General Assembly adopt in principal state-wide compulsory permanent registration of voters as part of the system of elections to prevail in Illinois and direct the preparation of permanent registration in accordance with the best procedures to be found by adequate study of systems now in effect in other states, and that such legislation be reported to the General Assembly at its next session" (i. e. present 1933 session).

Other endorsers of House Bill 485 are Illinois Chamber of Commerce; Civic Federation and Bureau of Public Efficiency; City Club of Children.

After the beautiful and impressive ceremony the Worthy Grand Matron spoke in a most pleasing manner, complimenting the officers on the way they had given the work and the wonderful attention the members had given. She thanked the Chapter for her honorary membership which was encago: Chicago Association of Commerce; Fred W. Sargent, Dean Shaler and Rabbi Louis Mann.

Honor Mrs. Lula Grimes, W. G. N. of O. E. S. of Illinois

(Contributed)

Tuesday evening, May 9, Dorothy Chapter, O. E. S. was greatly honored by the official visit of Mrs. Lula C. Grimes, Worthy Grand Matron of the Order of the Eastern Star of Illinois. The Masonic Temple which is lovely as it stands, was so beautifully and appropriately decorated that it was a perfect setting for this lovely occasion which also celebrated the Chapter's birthday.

In the center of the banquet hall was a stately May Pole with its gayly colored streamers extending to the tables which radiated from it in the form of a wheel. In the center of each table was a huge May basket filled with spring flowers; and at each place was a dainty May basket filled with nuts and candy. A beautiful birthday cake graced the guest table and was cut and served at the appropriate time.

The outer edge of the room was covered with blossoms and bows, the orchestra shell being transformed into a perfect bower for the May Queen and her court.

At 6:30 over two hundred members and guests, preceded by the Worthy Grand Matron, escorted by Miss Lucille Stauffer and Victor Eichler, Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron of Dorothy Chapter, entered the banquet hall. Three Grand Officers accompanied the Worthy Grand Matron to Dixon.

A lovely dinner was served and just after the last course, attention was attracted to a group of young people who presented a pageant in honor of the guest. The procession marched in with Junior Schrock as page. He was followed by Sarah Hasselberg who carried the queen's crown. Mary Jane Hebert and Eleanor Dodd, dressed in bunny outfits, were the queen's jesters. Helen Finley was crowned May Queen, her attendants being Jean Emmert, Catherine Buchner, Leone Kreim and Dorothy Stauffer. Wanda Walder danced for the Worthy Grand Matron and guests and presented Mrs. Grimes with a small token of Dorothy Chapter's love and esteem. Miss Eva Peterson was soloist for the evening. Miss Gladys Vaage and Mrs. Leon Hart presided at the piano.

The Worthy Grand Matron very graciously stood and responded to those taking part.

Following the supper hour, the members and visitors retired to the Grand Lodge Hall where a class of candidates were initiated in a manner which would do credit to any chapter or corps of officers. Over 250 attended the meeting.

Before the ceremony the Worthy Grand Matron was escorted and introduced. The fourteen girls who served as her escort presented a lovely appearance in their evening gowns. They carried snap dragons forming an arch with them as she approached the East. The escorts were: Mary Gonnemann, Catherine Lindell, Alice Richardson, Helen Finley, Ruth Kerz, Mary Jane Preston, Alma Coss, Marion Kennedy, Genevieve Dodd, Dorothy Helmick, Vera Thomas, Louise Brewster, Dorothy Hardy and Marcella Dick.

After Mrs. Grimes had been escorted and the Grand Officers had been introduced the Worthy Grand Matron asked Mrs. Nell Gearhart to rise. At this time the Worthy Grand Matron paid her the wonderful tribute of appointing Mrs. Gearhart Grand Representative of Maryland. She explained that a Worthy Grand Matron has only a limited number of appointments to give and that she was honoring the Past Matron's of Dorothy Chapter and the community through this appointment to her friend of twenty-five years standing. Every member of Dorothy Chapter appreciates the recognition and Mrs. Gearhart doubtless feels complimented with this high honor.

Mrs. Florence Hennick, Grand Lecturer of Aurora, was escorted, and a large number of visiting Matrons and Patrons. There were twenty-six Past Matrons and Patrons of Dorothy Chapter escorted. Dorothy Chapter sincerely appreciates the support of her past officers.

After the beautiful and impressive ceremony the Worthy Grand Matron spoke in a most pleasing manner, complimenting the officers on the way they had given the work and the wonderful attention the members had given. She thanked the Chapter for her honorary membership which was engraved in a book of poems and wished Dorothy Chapter a most successful year.

Miss Stauffer thanked her in behalf of Dorothy Chapter for her inspiring words and told her how much the members had enjoyed planning the lovely evening for her.

Mrs. Harriet Beam, Chaplain, read a brief history of the Chapter which every one enjoyed, concluding one of the most delightful evenings in the chapter's history. Much praise and thanks are due the committees in charge: Edna Decker and Mildred Deier, decorations.

Marcella Dick, flowers. Abigail Stauffer, kitchen. Violet Espy, dining room.

Daughter Former Dixonites Wed In Beautiful Ceremony

Mrs. S. W. Lehman of Bluff Park received from Mrs. Elwood T. Bailey, a copy of the San Diego Union, of San Diego, Cal., Sunday morning, April 9, 1933, which carries a full account, with many illustrations, of the wedding of Miss Ruth Elsie Bailey, and Wilmer Jos. Beekle. Elwood T. Bailey is a former Y. M. C. A. secretary of Dixon and the family have many friends here.

The article states in part: The tradition of romantic yesterday gave a quaint beauty and old fashioned charm to the ceremony which united Miss Ruth Elsie Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood T. Bailey, and Wilmer Jos. Beekle, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Beekle of Long Beach, last night half after eight o'clock in the First Methodist Church.

The bride and bridegroom recited by memory instead of repeating their wedding vows after the pastor, who was the Rev. Frank Linde, and in such a manner were the nuptial vows of the bride's parents taken a quarter of a century ago in Omaha Neb. Another distinctive feature of this wedding was the fact that the entire wedding party knelt around the chancel, the bride and bridegroom kneeling on white satin pillows.

Mrs. Beekle wore with regal grace the exquisite point d'esprit ivory lace gown which her mother had worn on her wedding day. The gown is handsomely embroidered with ribbon roses and forget-me-nots in pastel shades, the yoke, sleeves and girle being made of Honiton lace. The perky puff sleeves, high neck, princess lines and broad-shouldered effect make the gown as modern as if Worth had made it this season. In contrast to the rich detail of the gown was the plain tulle veil which fell from an undecorated, simple cap. And since puff sleeves connote muffs, it was appropriate that the bride should carry a floral muff of solidly banked gardenias, centered by a cluster of orchids.

It was a beautifully appointed wedding, all the attendants being gowned in keeping with the richness of the bride's attire. Miss Mary Phillipi, an aunt of the bride, was the maid of honor. There was also a matron of honor and four bridesmaids, all wearing gowns in lovely pastel shades, with short veils and muffs of ruffled material to match their gowns, the muffs being centered with a "rosary" of gardenias.

Raymond D. Rawson served as best man. There were six ushers. The formal green and white color scheme which traditionally belongs to weddings, decorated the church.

CINE-MODES SPRING DAYS, GRAY DAYS

The Moonglow Shade Is Winning Hollywood

By NEA Service

Hollywood—Skies are blue but clothes go in for gray, in a big way these days.

Nell O'Day has some pretty lounging pajamas of moonglow gray satin, with the preferred high neckline sort of a high cowl front and back, with cape sleeves all edged with handsome gray lace. She wears silver nudes with them.

Una O'Connor, dining at the Peverly Hills with Merle Tottenham, wore a charming summery chiffon, printed in black and white against a gray background. The dress has a full skirt, tight bodice and very full three-quarters sleeves.

Marlene Dietrich, taking her young daughter, Maria, to lunch at the Brown Derby, wore a long, tight-fitting gray coat, with ermine lapels, and a very tiny purple hat. Also a skirt! And a purple linen blouse.

Sari Maritza, lunching at Levee with a party of friends from England, wore a stunning tuckered gray and white ensemble, with a white serge suit with jacket fitted snugly and having padded shoulders. He felt that was the same gray as the blouse.

Ginger Rogers, driving toward the beach, showed only her head above the roadster. It carried a trick hat of gray stitched wool barely covering one side of her head, coming to a point over one eye but getting square in the back.

Miss Stauffer thanked her in behalf of Dorothy Chapter for her inspiring words and told her how much the members had enjoyed planning the lovely evening for her.

Mrs. Harriet Beam, Chaplain, read a brief history of the Chapter which every one enjoyed, concluding one of the most delightful evenings in the chapter's history. Much praise and thanks are due the committees in charge: Edna Decker and Mildred Deier, decorations.

The bride's mother was lovely in a blue lace gown in which was woven a silver thread. It was trimmed with blue velvet. The bridegroom's mother wore a white lace gown imported from China.

Following the ceremony the bridal party received the guests in the church parlors, and after this large reception, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Bailey gave a smaller reception for the immediate relatives and close friends of the family in their home, 3584 Pershing Avenue. Following this reception, the bride and bridegroom received in their own home, 2637 Dwight street.

It was a beautifully appointed wedding, all the attendants being gowned in keeping with the richness of the bride's attire. Miss Mary Phillipi, an aunt of the bride, was the maid of honor. There was also a matron of honor and four bridesmaids, all wearing gowns in lovely pastel shades, with short veils and muffs of ruffled material to match their gowns, the muffs being centered with a "rosary" of gardenias.

Raymond D. Rawson served as best man. There were six ushers. The formal green and white color scheme which traditionally belongs to weddings, decorated the church.

The bride's mother was lovely in a blue lace gown in which was woven a silver thread. It was trimmed with blue velvet. The bridegroom's mother wore a white lace gown imported from China.

Let's Canonize Mother's Life -- and Not Just "Mother's Day"

By Olive Roberts Barton

Mother's Day again! On May the twelfth or thirteenth we go to the shop and buy a box of candy, a plant, or a new pair of gloves, and on Sunday morning we hand over our offerings at the breakfast table and congratulate her for being such a noble person.

She—poor soul—being grateful for any sort of recognition fills up and cries about having such a thoughtful, appreciative family, kisses everybody all the way round then begins to scrape up the dishes.

Some way or other we over-dramatize one day a year and the rest of the time we get all we can out of her and think too seldom of the little gifts and attentions that she would appreciate immensely.

Mother Is Getting Wise
But mother today is not the mother of 1910 or even 1920. She is, thank heaven, beginning to think about this motherhood business and is learning day by day a few of those truths that all women should have known dozens of years ago.

Among other things she has discovered that being a door-mat for the family isn't the noble thing it used to be. Not that she isn't willing to work and sacrifice for her children and her husband but because she thinks she can be of better use to them if she adopts a different attitude.

Penalty of Indifference
Who suffers most when children become indifferent, imposing and even cruel? Mothers? Not at all—the children themselves eventually. The child who is reared to regard his mother with love and respect, who learns that every consideration and thoughtfulness is her right and who continues to grow in that idea will have the foundation stones of real character.

The pampered, indulged child who looks upon his mother merely as a convenience and who lacks respect and courtesy, cannot help building only the flimsy type of character that such a weak foundation will bear.

It's Time to Speak Up
The wise mother today demands for herself a place in the sun. As I said before, not selfishly, but for the purely altruistic reason that it is better for everybody.

In time we shall not have Mother's Day once a year, but every day. When that happens the gift her children present to her in May will be a different symbol from what it is now, just as the gift today represents something different from that of the past.

One Day Not Enough
Naturally the figure is overdrawn. There are too many children in American homes filled with real reverence and love for their mothers to deserve such comparison, but we still have a long way to go.

Alas, there are still too many who think one day a year enough to show their affection! Motherhood is one thing that neither kings nor Communists can change. It is a sacred relation of spirit as well as body. Let us canonize, not "Mother's Day," but "Mother's Life."

Meeting at Nurses Home Well Attended
There was a good attendance at the meeting held at the Nurses Home yesterday afternoon in honor of National Hospital Day, and to further advance interest in pre-natal care for mothers and also in the treatment of tuberculosis.

Dr. Charles LeSage gave a most interesting address on the Pre-natal and Post-natal care for mothers. Miss Deardorff, R. N., told of the care necessary in the Obstetric room at the hospitals.

Dr. E. S. Murphy gave a most interesting talk on Tuberculosis and treatment, and exhibited X-ray pictures which are of great value in this work.

A TEST FOR OCEAN FLYING

In a world grown dizzy by chasing its tail around a spiraled path of economics and politics it is difficult to spare much time for contemplation of activities that are more spectacular than useful. Nevertheless, it is worth noticing that the Italian aviation corps is about to put on one of the most sensational shows that flyers have ever attempted.

Late in May, a squadron of 24 Italian seaplanes, under the leadership of Gen. Italo Balbo, will attempt to fly from Italy to Chicago.

This stunt, of course, will tie in with the Century of Progress exposition on Chicago's lake front. It will be a "good will" gesture of considerable value for the Italian government. It will, also—if it is blessed with any measure of success—do a great deal to hasten the day when regular transoceanic air services are commonplace.

One hundred flyers have been chosen to take part in preparation for it. They are being trained as rigorously as any group of Olympic athletes. Italy is taking no chances on failure. Machines and men will be in the best possible condition.

And the very thought of these two dozen airplanes winging their way across the ocean in a body is exciting.

There will be people, of course, who will be quick to proclaim that such a flight emphasizes our need for stronger military defenses against hostile air fleets. The old bogeys of the destruction of New York and Washington by bombs will be hauled out again; the old story about the new supremacy of the airplane will be chanted anew.

These arguments can be left to Congress and our military authorities. For the ordinary citizen the flight will be noteworthy as a demonstration of the reliability of the airplane as an instrument of long-distance communication.

If a squadron of this size can accomplish an ocean crossing, it will be fairly obvious that regular transatlantic air services can and should be established. We shall be forced to realize that so far we have hardly begun to use all the marvelous potentialities of the airplane. The Italian government, attempting a spectacular stunt flight, is in a fair way to give the cause of air transportation the biggest boost it has received since Lindbergh's flight.

OUR NEWEST DIRIGIBLE.

The airship Macon has gone aloft at last, and everyone who watched her as she slid effortlessly along the sky must have felt a sharp pang of regret at the thought that these exciting and magnificent dirigibles are not, after all, quite as practical as we had supposed.

What the Macon's future is going to be only time can tell. She was hardly launched under auspicious circumstances. The Akron was destroyed in a gale just as the Macon was made ready; then the Macon herself had to wait in her hangar for more than a week until mild weather came; and the net result seemed to be just so much added proof that the big dirigible must be a fair-weather bird.

But she is a beautiful sight to watch, for all that—beautiful and thrilling. A lot of people will continue to hope, for more reasons than one, that this ship will be able to reassert the reliability of the giant airship.

My individual view is that the American public should suffer incalculable injuries in other respects before the freedom of the press should be injuriously affected to any material extent whatever.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

The depression has had its effect on animal and bird life as it has on humans. Some humane societies have had to suspend their activities entirely for lack of funds.—George M. Woolsey, president Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Liberals would like to rebuild the station while the trains are running; radicals prefer to blow up the station and forego service until the new structure is built.—Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture.

The United States is the only civilized country that permits the working of women and minors in all-night shifts.—Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts.

Unfortunately, depressions have to run their course like everything else.—Richard Whitney, president New York Stock Exchange.

The modern tendency of some women to copy the man pattern in style of clothes and habit is a subject for ridicule.—Mae West, actress.

If I had $5000 in gold I would defy the government to come and get it.—Senator Borah of Idaho.

I bear my fate with resignation, for the Lord knows what he is doing.—Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany.

In event of war women should be drafted on an equal basis with men.—Amelia Earhart, flyer.

If that sort of spirit is general, the navy may yet make a go of its big dirigibles.

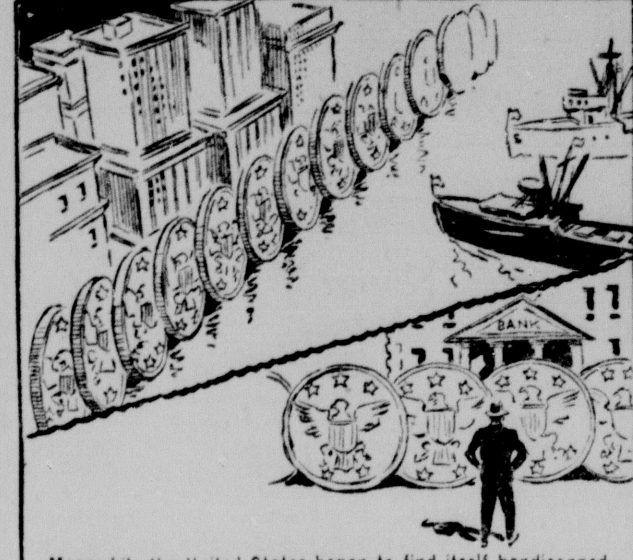

MONEY—FROM THE STONE AGE TILL NOW

The collapse of Germany and Russia made it impossible for them to pay their share of the war costs, as the allied leaders had calculated. The allied countries began to see their currency depreciate, too, even the French, who had been cagey about keeping a large gold supply.

The nations tried to get back to gold. But the huge debts arising from the war were too much. Most of them owed more than they could ever hope to redeem in gold. France and Italy changed the value of the franc and lira from 19 cents in gold to 4 or 5 cents, virtually an 80 per cent repudiation, or confiscation to that extent of the property of all who held francs or lira.

Meanwhile the United States began to find itself handicapped in dealing with people in countries which used these depreciated currencies. It took a great deal of this money to buy dollars with which to purchase things in America. The long depression cut people's ability to buy even in America, while their debts in terms of gold dollars remained the same.

So the treasury forbade exports of gold, refused to pay off its money and bonds in gold, in the expectation that the dollar, when no longer convertible to gold coin, would become cheaper for both foreign and domestic buyers to use. This would tend to restore foreign trade, and increase the return from things sold, so people could pay their debts. (NEXT: Our New Money Law.)

The wooden shoe sailed on and on, and shortly the old witch was out of sight and wee Duncy smiled and said, "Well, how about it, bunch?"
"Our girl friends were in quite a plight, but they've escaped and they are all right. Why not give me some credit, since the whole scheme was my hunch?"
"One of the little girls then said, 'We must admit you used your head. Of course we're very thankful, and we're glad we've met you, too.'"
"But, ere we travel very far, please tell us, lads, just who you are." "We are Tinymites," said Duncy, with a smile. "Now, who are you?"
"You are Tinymites?" one girl snapped. "Gee! That is very, very strange, 'cause so are we. My name is Goldy, because that is the color of my hair."
"And mine is Dotty. That, I guess is because I wear a dotted dress," exclaimed the other little girl. "My this whole thing is rare."

"OVERWORKING THE FUTURE."
(By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton)

The future is not an actor, but a result; it will bring nothing to us save what we bring to it. So far from being a magician, it is only a storehouse into which the present empties itself. If the present is barren, the future will be empty also, and moving still further away will wait for the present to make it rich. Tomorrow is only an estimate, a summing up of today, when it is not a satire upon it.

Yet we are all the while personifying the future as a kind of wizard who, like some fairy queen, is to pour jewels into our laps. Thus tomorrow is over-loaded, over-worked, weighed down with things we intend to do and to get. All of us are guilty of this folly, forgetting the warning of Cervantes that by the street called "By and By" we reach the Land of Never. What a surprise it would be if we could open the door of that House of Never and see the plans and dreams, the projects and promises, piled up there. So many of them are forgotten, and all are dust-covered.

None the less we go on pushing duties, privileges, and even joys into the future, all the while robbing the present. How strange that we make the future an excuse for sloth, a packhorse for folly, and even a scapegoat for sin. Of nothing may be more sure than this: if we cannot live today we will not live tomorrow; if we cannot sanctify the present we cannot sanctify the future. Today is all the time there is, all that is needed, and it is a pity to let a deceiving fancy rob us of its worth.

Daily Health Talk

DYSPEPSIA IN OLD PEOPLE
(When an individual over 40 years of age develops dyspepsia, one must suspect the existence of an important underlying cause.)

The very first thing to think of is cancer.
The history of such a case usually records an abrupt beginning of indigestion, the individual in most instances having previously been in perfect health.
With the indigestion there is a very marked loss of appetite and a special dislike of meat. Vomiting and irregularity of the bowels may be accompanying symptoms.
Any sudden change in the gastric functions of an individual in middle or old age calls for a careful medical examination, including the X-ray of the entire gastrointestinal tract.
Dyspepsia during middle or old age may, however, be due to causes other than cancer. Among these in the male, enlargement of the prostate is not an uncommon one. This type of patient is usually around 60 years of age. He reports that the onset of his dyspepsia was gradual. He commonly complains of discomfort in the pit of his stomach, of moderate intensity, which tends to become worse after meals. He does not usually suffer vomiting or irregularity of the bowels.
Careful inquiry will reveal, though at times the patient is hesitant to admit it, that he has difficulty in emptying his bladder and he must do so frequently.
In such cases it is believed that the dyspepsia is due to urinary obstruction, with consequent damage to the kidneys and the development of a mild uremia.
In such cases modification of the diet may be required and the dyspepsia itself must be treated, but the underlying cause being due to an enlargement of the prostate, this gland also requires attention.
In a certain number of instances the patient may be helped by massage, and by medical treatment. In most cases, however, treatment is essentially surgical.
Tomorrow—Heart Hurry.

GAULT MacGowan, Managing Editor of the Tribune Guardian, Port of Spain (B. W. I.) says:

"If the Pilgrim Fathers were to land anew in America, they would have no difficulty in prescribing a cure for the present depression."

"Accustomed as they were to refer to the Bible for direction in all their problems, they would not have had to look further than the Twenty-Third Chapter of Exodus where the Children of Israel were enjoined to cease production every seven years. Fields and orchards were to be left to lie fallow, and the cattle to roam wild."

"Even Howard Scott, the technocrat, could scarcely quarrel with this procedure. If, as the technocrats suggest, we cut the present working day in half—that is to say work only four hours instead of eight—it would be exactly the same thing as taking twelve months holiday every seventh year."

"Of the two courses, any director of industry would infinitely prefer the Israeli solution, since it is a waste of effort to start work and then abandon it. The best way is to work hard on a job and then finish it."

"If we all knew that we were in for a holiday every seven years—apart, of course, from essential services—there would be no talk of the menace of the machine or any other department of public enterprise. Calculating from the E. B. of the creation of the world 4004 B. C., it is an odd coincidence that 1932 should have been a holiday year, the 343rd cycle of seven years."

"It was in 1932 that economists were crying out all over the world to cut production as a solution of human problems. I wonder how many of them knew that the problem had been settled for them in 1491 B. C., when the regulations were laid down for cultivation of the Promised Land."

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington — Perhaps none of President Roosevelt's selections for high office in his administration created greater interest among Washington political observers than that of George Peek to direct the new farm relief plan.
It was not the fact that Peek was a republican until he broke with that party in 1928 to support Alfred E. Smith. Nor was he an unknown. His activities in behalf of the farmer have made him a familiar figure for a long time in national legislative circles.
Peek's selection is interesting because he has the reputation of being a realistic and practical sort of an individual in his views on the subject of farm relief. The fact that he was a manufacturer of farm machinery would seem to indicate that.
And to have a man with Peek's reputation administering this particular bill, in the light of what some of the so-called big minds in the senate and house said about it while it was in the course of construction is interesting.
A Matter Of Balance
The gentlemen on Capitol Hill were fond of referring to the farm bill, while it was under consideration in congress, as being largely a professional concoction. One heard it referred to, for example, as the "Tugwell-Ezekiel formula" — Tugwell being the professor from Columbia university brought in by President Roosevelt and made assistant secretary of agriculture, and Ezekiel being Dr. Mordecai Ezekiel, an agricultural economist of that department.
The politically-minded in the capital have been endeavoring for a long time to figure out just where the "brain trust" fits into the "new deal." Some have been openly distrustful of the professors looking upon them as political theorists whose ideas simply won't work out in practice.
Now they are asking if Roosevelt's selection of Peek as farm relief administrator doesn't answer the question.
When Views Diverge
Doesn't it mean, they ask, that while the President leans heavily on his "brain trust" for planning, he prefers the man of wide practical experience for the actual task of executing the plan?
It is no secret that Peek and the professors have carried on a friendly dispute as to how the provisions of the farm bill should be applied. They have met with the President and he has told them to get together and compose their differences.
Those who know Peek say that he will not yield; that he'll refuse the post rather than surrender his convictions. If he is on the job when the work actually starts, they say, it will be a signal that his views have prevailed.
It is possible, through the use of special appliances, for as many as six persons in widely separated places to talk together by telephone.

INDIANS CLIMB INTO TOP PLACE IN JUNIOR LOOP

Yankees Dropped To Unfamiliar Ground Because Of Rain

By HUGH S. FULLERTON
The Cleveland Indians have captured first place in the American League, and it may be quite a task to get them out of there.

When the campaign started, there was considerable doubt as to just where the Indians belonged. Now that they have settled into their stride with the pitchers going great guns and batters picking up, there's no longer any question about it.

Melvin Harder, youngest member of the mound staff, presented a clinching argument yesterday as he took personal charge of a 4 to 1 victory over the Boston Red Sox that gave Cleveland undisputed possession of the lead with a half game margin over the New York Yankees, who were kept idle in Chicago.

Harder held the Red Sox to six hits and walloped a homer for the run that put the Indians ahead to stay, after scoring the first run off Ivy Paul Andrews on a two-base hit. Another bright spot appeared for the Indians when Joe Vosmik hit a single to break a string of 18 futile visits to the plate.

Senators Tumble
Washington dropped into fourth place in the only other American League game when the St. Louis Browns took the home run route to their second straight victory, 4 to 3. Oscar Melillo hit for the circuit with one on in the fifth and Ted Gulic, rookie outfielder from Koshkonong, Mo., repeated the feat in the ninth after Ossie Bluege's homer had put Washington ahead in the first half of the last inning.

Frank O'Doul, National League batting champion, emerged from his customary spring batting slump battered. Paul Derringer for a homer and four singles, and drove in five Brooklyn Dodgers runs in a 7-6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. His last blow drove in the tying run in the ninth and enabled Jake Flowers to send home the winning counter.

Lindstrom Stars
Pittsburgh's league leading Pirates muddled through to a 7-6 victory over the second place New York Giants with the aid of four Giant errors and a dozen hits off Carl Hubbell. Freddy Lindstrom, making his first appearance in the Polo Grounds since he was traded to the Giants last winter, led the attack with three hits.

The reconstructed St. Louis infield and southpaw Bill Hallahan, held the Boston Braves in check to give the Cardinals a 2-1 victory. Hallahan gave only seven hits but it took some sparkling fielding by Pepper Martin, Leo Durocher and Pat Crawford to keep the Braves from getting more.

The game between the Chicago Cubs and the Phillies was rained out.

FREDDIE'S RETURN

New York, May 12 —(AP)—Freddie Lindstrom, the "boy wonder" of John McGraw's last triumphs with the Giants, stepped out of a dugout and onto the playing field of the Polo Grounds for the first time in the grey uniform of the enemy.

He looked quickly around, an eager grin on his square, Scandinavian features. Instinctively he glanced toward the Giants' dugout. Then he turned away, and picked up a bat. Half in apology he said: "I guess you can't break a habit of nine years so easily. I feel as though I should be on the other bench. But it's a thrill to be back, just the same."

That was all there was to the return of Freddy Lindstrom to the Polo Grounds, where he first came up as an 18-year-old kid in 1924, a third base prodigy of old Master McGraw. He stayed until the great "Jawn" retired last summer, turned the reins over to Bill Terry, and started the wholesale breaking up of a ball club. During the winter Terry sent Lindstrom to the Pittsburgh Pirates amid a cloud of rumors that Freddy was dissatisfied because Terry and not he, had been given the club management.

PACIFIC PARAGRAPHS—

When Dink Templeton, Stanford track coach, makes a prediction, it is well enough to listen—Dink has a strong team at Stanford this year, but he forecasts a victory for Southern California before that dual meet—and, sure enough the Trojans won, 72 to 58.

TAB THIS ONE—

Pacific Coast Operative Tommy Laird conveys tidings on Charley Seaver that might be construed as a tip on a coming national champion. Seaver has been playing a red-hot brand of golf this year, being the class of the field at the recent California golf club tournament. He has improved his iron play, which was spotty in other years. This big boy can play a world of golf. Gus Moreland, John Fischer, Johnny Goodman and the others will find they have somebody to beat when they assemble at Cincinnati for the joust.

NOW THIS IS SETTLED—

There is hardly a doubt that Young Corbett III will beat Jimmy McLarnin when the two meet May 29 for the world's welter-weight championship—anyone who saw what Lou Brouillard did to McLarnin knows the answer to that one. McLarnin simply does not know how to fight left-handed. Lads who reverse the orthodox stance of fighting men by extending right foot and right hand, Corbett will not lose to a boxer who was unable to penetrate Louis southpaw style.

Kid Chocolate Is Ill: Fight Delayed

New York, May 12 —(AP)—Kid Chocolate's illness has forced postponement of the Cuban's feather-weight championship match with Seaman Tom Watson until next Friday night.

AND SO IS THIS—

Operative Laird is trying to convince himself day by day that Max Baer will beat Max Schmeling. Perhaps Baer is under-rated in this corner, but those affairs of his with Johnny Risko and Paulino were not impressive enough to arouse shouting from this end of the press row. Baer is a big slasher who will walk right into Schmeling, and his own destruction.

The German's punching power has been under-emphasized. Risko is witness to the fact that "that Dutchman can hit" Johnny was going along splendidly in that battle—piling up points with his steady style—and then all at once he pushed his chin into the way of a swishing Schmeling right—and the works were off.

DID YOU KNOW—

Promoter Jack Doyle is ambitious. The Los Angeles impresario hopes to outdo the record of $155,000—held by Mickey Walker and Ace Hudkins—with his Corbett-McLarnin show, May 29. The prices on this one are $2, $3, $5 and $7.50—and tops for Walker-Hudkins were $16.50. Pointing out the advantages of this fight, Dean Snyder writes: "Los Angeles is at its best in May—all of the ring championships except the welter-weight are clouded and questionable." Tommy Ryan, one of the early champions in the welter division, probably will be one of McLarnin's seconds— and requests for reservations by certified checks or postoffice orders will be promptly handled.

Londos And Wilson To Meet For Title

Indianapolis, May 12 —(AP)—Al G. Peeney, Indiana Athletic Commission, said today he would recognize a wrestling match between Jim Londos and Dr. Ralph Wilson scheduled for this city May 22, as a bout for the world's heavyweight title.

The National Wrestling Association, which controls wrestling in thirty-two states, recognizes Londos as the champion despite the

that they were a perfect imitation of natural flowers and every bit as beautiful. The decorative scheme and the large attendance were such that it was decided to have photographs taken of the meeting this year.

Dr. Warren G. Murray, managing officer of the hospital, together members of his staff, conducted many of the doctors through this big institution during the afternoon so that they might see the various types of patients and learn how they are handled.

At 6:00 P. M. the guests began to assemble in the recreation building where they were entertained by an orchestra concert by the Dixon state hospital orchestra, under the direction of professor Wallace P. Smith.

At 6:15 the table candles were lighted, and a staff of 40 young ladies, all in white uniforms, began to serve the elaborate banquet which had been planned and prepared under the direction of Jack Waters, the hospital chef. During the banquet the guests were entertained by some exceptionally fine vocal solos by Dora Andreas Wiles, accompanied by Mrs. Roscoe Eades. This young lady has established an enviable reputation for her vocal work not only in this vicinity, but throughout her various concert tours, and her efforts were thoroughly appreciated by this vast audience.

After the banquet the young ladies who had served it so efficiently presented each lady guest with a box of candy, and there were cigars for the gentlemen. These banquets are served, bring much praise to those who prepare and serve them.

Following the banquet, Dr. David Murphy, president of the Lee County Medical Society, called the meeting to order and introduced the host, Dr. Warren G. Murray, to whom he turned over the meeting. Dr. Murray assured all the guests that they were welcome at all times to visit this institution and he thanked the doctors for having come such a distance to attend this particular meeting. He then introduced the principal speaker of the meeting, Dr. Edward S. Clinch, Chief of Staff of the Mayo Clinic, who delivered a most interesting and instructive address on the subject of "Acute Cholecystitis," which is inflammation of the gall bladder, and he explained the various causes that lead up to this condition, the symptoms which indicate how serious it may be, and described in detail the latest and most effective means of treating this fairly common condition. He called attention to the fact that it is not advisable to operate on these cases during the acute stage, but these cases should be in the hospital, under close observation until the inflammation has subsided to a point where it is advisable to operate. A part of his address was illustrated by some excellent lantern slides, thrown up on the large movie screen by a new type of lantern operated by J. A. Dauntler of Dixon. These slides illustrated the various changes in the gall bladder and man beings fall heir to. This opinion

Dr. Murray then introduced Dr. Gladys H. Dick, Associate Director, Scarlet Fever Committee, Chicago, who gave the doctors some very interesting information regarding the practical results in the control of scarlet fever. Dr. Dick is justly proud of the fact that since she first began the use of scarlet fever toxin-anti-toxin on the patients at the Dixon state hospital six years ago, there has not been a single case of scarlet fever among those immunized.

This is especially interesting because the patients in this state hospital were found to be more susceptible than children outside the hospital. Dr. Dick is about ready to issue a report to the medical profession on the results of this method of preventing scarlet fever on over 50,000 cases. This is a record which will go down in history, and Dr. Murray in introducing this speaker stated that he was confident that the work done by Dr. Dick would eventually be classed with that done by such wonderful scientists as Pasteur, Dr. Jenner, and those who have been instrumental in wiping out some of the dreadful diseases that human beings fall heir to. Pres. Roosevelt Should Talk To Secretary Ickes

(Jersey City, N. J. Journal)

The gold and currency problems are not the only confusing things about the new deal.

Thursday night the President told the United States Chamber of Commerce that business must quit cut-throat competition and cooperate. He said:

"In almost every industry an overwhelming majority of the units of the industry are wholly willing to work together to prevent overproduction, to prevent unfair, low wages, to eliminate improper working conditions. In the past success in attaining these objectives has been prevented by a small majority of units in many industries. I can assure you that you will have the cooperation of your government in bringing these minorities to understand that their unfair practices are contrary to sound public policy."

Friday, Secretary of the Interior Ickes filed a complaint with the Federal Trade Commission that the "cement trust" had submitted ten identical bids for the Colorado River dam in the Colorado River, and that these bids were identical because the "trust" had entered into an agreement to raise prices to the government. Mr. Ickes now threatens to put the government in the cement business by building a plant to manufacture cement for government projects unless some concern is willing to accept a contract to make cement at "fair prices." He said:

"It should be borne in mind that an increase in the price of materials will take just that much away from funds available for labor. The more we give to the cement trust, the less we have left for wages."

But if the ten cement companies which submitted identical bids did conspire, it is possible that the reason they conspired was to "prevent unfair wages and to eliminate improper working conditions," certainly the cement industry would be interested in preventing a surplus.

If the government is going to threaten every industry from which it might buy materials for public works with government competition as soon as an increase in prices appears around the corner, what becomes of inflation? The President also said, on Thursday:

"We (the government) have sought through moderate and wise measures to increase the volume of trade, to give employment to the unemployed, and to effect a broad elevation of commodity prices."

Cement is a commodity. If the big concerns, which would be able to supply the big orders the government is preparing to place, don't set the pace, the little fellows are a blessing for which the industry should thank Mr. Roosevelt, and a sin for which Mr. Roosevelt's secretary of the interior proposes to prosecute the industry.

Equally confusing—the railroad bill compels railroads to cooperate and consolidate—the earmarks of a trust in the making; and all the powers which the President urges Congress to give his federal coordinator for railroads are powers the exercise of which will tend to stiffen freight and passenger rates. But to Mr. Ickes a trust is wicked. Mr. Ickes is old-fashioned. He is trying to protect the public purse by buying from the lowest bidder. The President wants lowest bidders to bid higher.

Fight In Rockford Results In Death

Rockford, Ill., May 12—(AP)—Authorities were investigating a reported fist fight that resulted in the death of one man while they debated whether manslaughter or murder charges would be filed against the other participant, Earl Bland, 27, formerly of Centerville, Iowa.

Bland was arrested yesterday after the death of Floyd "Buck" Conners, 32. The fight started, witnesses said, when Conners offered to help eject Bland from an athletic club after an attendant had ordered him out.

PRUSSIA ADOPTS BOLD SCHEME TO BREAK UP FARMS

Farm Land To Cease To Be Commodity: Estates End

Berlin, May 12.—(AP)—The Prussian government will invoke on Monday a bold, revolutionary law to settle its most troublesome farm problem—heavy landed indebtedness.

The law will abolish large estate ownership, set up a new class of equally landed gentry, and will serve ultimately to deprive any person of "Jewish or colored blood" from ownership of farm land.

"Only a German citizen of German birth can inherit land as a farmer," the law states. "German blooded is he who has neither were down from Paw Paw Saturday in connection with the settling of his father's estate.

Herbert Parker was here Tuesday delivering his grain to local market.

William Larabee of Earlville was here Saturday calling on former neighbors.

Jewish nor colored blood within four generations."

Under the law no farmer may own a larger tract than is needed for the support of his family; and it must be worked without the employment of outside labor.

Farm land ceases to be a commodity. It will be acquired only by inheritance, and only the eldest child of either sex will inherit it.

The law provides further that the eldest child, though he inherits the farm tract, shall provide support for brothers and sisters if they come innocently to distress.

Prof. Ernst Wagemann, leading Nazi economist, explained that under the law "huge estate owners' right of inheritance transmission will be revoked."

MORGENTHAU AND WALLACE SET UP FARM-AID PLANS

Starting Preparations To Carry Out Terms Of Farm Bill

Washington, May 12—(AP)—Secretary Wallace and Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Governor-designate of the Farm Credit Administration, today assumed the key roles in the nation's most ambitious program to return farming to the class of a profitable business.

Without waiting for the formality of Roosevelt's signing of the measure, expected this afternoon, they plunged into the task of peering least two years of operation.

Wallace, who will direct the program aimed to bring better prices and to adjust American production to demand, prepared messages to processors, producers, and handlers of basic commodities, summoning them to commodity conferences which he hopes to begin early next week.

After the conferences, which will explore the possibilities and methods of helping agriculture this year, he will call public meetings and set up commodity councils. These, under his direction will perfect trade agreements, levy processing taxes, if necessary, and pursue other courses open to the Iowa in bettering the lot of the farmer.

Loan Fund Ready
Morgenthau completed his setup to make available Monday the first loans from a special $200,000,000 fund and to get the $2,000,000,000 mortgage refinancing program underway in two weeks.

The special fund, from the Reconstruction Corporation, will be lent to farmers on either first or second mortgages to help out those who face early foreclosure or whose farms have been foreclosed since July 1, 1931, and who may still redeem them.

The loans will be at 5 per cent interest for 13-year periods, with no payments on principal for the first three years. Farmers can borrow up to $5,000.

The farm relief bill also contains unprecedented powers for Roosevelt to direct expansion of credit and currency. Speaker Rainey was due in the Capital today so that he could sign the measure, a requirement before sending it to the President.

OFFICIALS ACT TO KEEP FARMS' PRODUCE MOVING

Extent Of the Strike, Set For Tomorrow, Very Uncertain Today

Chicago, May 12—(AP)—Officialdom moved today to prevent any farm strike inconvenience to the American public. At various points where tie-ups of marketing of food stuff were threatened, officials took action.

The strike, under sponsorship of the Farmer's Holiday Association, is scheduled to start tomorrow.

In Wisconsin Governor A. G. Schmedeman warned Sheriffs and District Attorneys they would be held responsible for any disorders growing out of picketing attempts, while in Oklahoma Governor W. H. Murray declared that "every man will be protected in his right to sell to him who wants to buy."

A strike by some dairy farmers in northern Illinois, which was opposed by members of the Pure Milk Association, was threatened for tomorrow, and Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen of Chicago issued a warning that milk from any section where tie-ups are attempted would be barred from the metropolitan area. He contended in the past such strikes had jeopardized the purity of the milk supply.

Representatives of about 2,000 milk producers in Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania decided to lend moral support to the strike movement, but in at least one section of the central west some doubt as to the attitude of the farmers existed. That was in South Dakota, where Emil Lorik, secretary of that state's division of the Holiday Association, said no organized effort toward participation had been made. At St. Paul, Minn. Directors of the Twin City Milk Producers Association declined to participate in the proposed strike.

Milo Reno, president of the Holiday Association, left Des Moines for St. Paul to confer with strike leaders.

MONNIE O'DARE is secretly engaged to DAN CARDIGAN, heir to a local fortune. Dan doesn't want his parents to know of the engagement as they oppose the marriage. He and Monnie plan to elope in January when he will come into some money of his own. Dan is jealous of CHARLES EUSTACE, handsome newcomer, who shows Monnie marked attention. She is dismayed to think of Bill being in love with a married woman, though admitting Angie's goodness of heart.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXII

SANDRA, in a deep chair of stick willow with cushions daintily striped in yellow and orange, leaned back and regarded her caller thoughtfully.

"I think you're perfectly right, Geraldine," she observed, lighting a cigarette with a flick of her long, slim fingers. "I think people are talking and it would be well to get him away."

"But that's just the trouble," protested Dan's sister who, lean and vigorous in her white linen riding outfit, lounged in the porch swing. "He won't go. Mother wanted him to go to Yosemite with her. He says he's too busy. Then my cousin May wrote us about this dude ranch. It's what Dan has always been crazy about—and I thought if you'd go along we could make up a party—"

She left the sentence hanging. Sandra's eyes sparkled.

"It would be fun," she said with enthusiasm. "You and I—and Danny and perhaps Lansing Waterman. He gets home next week. I wonder—" her eyes narrowed, considering. "I wonder if Charles Eustace could be persuaded to go, too."

"My dear!" Geraldine's laugh held a touch of malice. "That would be perfect if we could swing it. Two birds with one stone."

"Leave it to me!" Sandra got to her feet, smiling. "I'll see what can be done."

Geraldine's voice held a note of envy.

"You're a wonder," she breathed. "If you can do it, mother will be everlastingly grateful. What she says, of course, is that she could put her foot down—be firm with Dan about seeing her so much—but she would just make him mulish. You know how he can be! Just that touch of opposition," averred Geraldine wisely, "might lead to something serious. Whereas—"

Sandra finished the sentence for her. "Whereas," she cried gaily, "we turn Danny off to this delicious place, have a grand time and meanwhile he forgets all about the girl back home."

"Exactly!" Geraldine's lean brown face, so like Dan's but without the touch of softness which would have made her, as a woman, irresistible, flushed with excitement.

BUT they reckoned without their host this time. Dan was a mulish, refusing to leave Belvedere for any prospect, however alluring. His father, consulted as to plans, brought pressure to bear, summoning Dan to his private oflike expensive things. I'd be the last one in the world to suggest you should marry a girl for her money, but there's no question of that in this particular case. No man in his senses could help admiring Sandra."

He waited for affirmation and Dan nodded it, grudgingly. "I suppose not," he said.

"Good. Good! I'm glad you feel that way about it. That's why I agreed to talk to you about this trip. It would please Mother, it would please Sandra and, most of all, it would please me. How about it?"

"I'm not sure about it, Dad!" Dan pleaded awkwardly.

"Certainly. Certainly." Both men were on their feet now, relieved that the interview was at an end. "But don't make up your mind without thinking about what I've said."

WHEN Dan met Monnie that night he told her of it—baldly, not sparing her.

"Dan wants me to go west with Sandra and the crowd. He thinks I ought to fix it up with Sandra—make a go of it."

He could not see how white she had turned in the darkness. Her voice, when it came, was cool, a trifle distant. "What are you going to do about it?"

Dan felt particularly badgered that day. He was thoroughly out of temper. Monnie's dispassionate gentleness only served to irritate him further. He said what he had not meant to say—that he did not really feel.

"Oh, guess I better string along with them, just to please Mother. It might be fun."

Monnie withdrew her hand from his arm where he had tucked it only a moment ago.

"Go by all means if you feel like that," she told him. Her heart was very sore. It was full to bursting. Things had gone along too smoothly of late, she reminded herself. Dan had been so secure, so happy, with the knowledge of her secret troth deep in her heart, with Dan's seal ring in the bottom of her treasure box, a pledge and a promise. Now they were taking him away from her, coolly, deliberately. "You shouldn't even think of staying here if you want to go," she said aloofly.

"You little fool!" Dan crushed her to him roughly. They were sitting in the shadows on the side porch. "Better not tell me that too often. Maybe I'll take you at your word!"

"Oh Dan!" She was in his arms, the salt tears trembling on her lashes. "You hurt me so—I thought you wanted to be with them. The way you said it and, after all, why shouldn't you? It must be fun. Why should I keep you away from it?"

"It'd be rotten without you," Dan told her loyally. "No, I haven't the slightest intention of giving in. I told Father I'd think it over, but my mind's made up."

After he had gone Monnie thought bitterly that all their lives Dan would be giving things up for her. It was the eternal battle between the rich and the poor. He loved her now and so it did not matter. But how would it be later on? Would he hate her for taking him away from the easy life he had loved?

She fell asleep, wondering. (To Be Continued)

one golden August morning.

Dan liked and respected his father. The keen-eyed, graying man usually kept his hands out of household affairs, preferring to let his wife decide such matters. This time, however, he had not been allowed to choose the line of least resistance. There had been a conference in Mrs. Cardigan's dressing room the night before. This interview was the result.

"Dan, what's this I hear about you not wanting a vacation with mother and the folks?"

Dan squirmed uncomfortably. "Had enough vacation. Thought I'd stick around and see how things are going. I know they haven't been so good for us lately—"

His father interrupted, rather testily. "Never mind, never mind! It seems your mother's set her heart on this trip and wants you along. I don't know what the notion is, exactly. Bears, maybe. You're to save 'em from dangers on this dude ranch." His eyes twinkled.

"These places are safe as Main street," Dan muttered, sullenly. "Don't see why I have to go tramping off with all those women. Anyhow, they'll have plenty of protection. Lance Waterman'll be there and both the Franklin kids. They're grown up now. As for bears," his tone was contemptuous, "Gerry and Sandra can handle a gun as well as I can."

"I know that. I know that." His father's voice was a rumble deep in his throat. It made the old man uncomfortable to lecture Dan this way. No sense to it, at all. It was rank foolishness, spending all that money on a trip with the market the way it'd been. He was worried about money, no mistake about it. No good suggesting it to Mother, though. She'd just flare up and tell him he ought to manage things better. Well, maybe he should have done that. Worried about money, that made him think of something else he'd been meaning to speak to Dan about.

HE cleared his throat, embarrassed. "Dan—uh—what's this I hear about you and Sandra?"

"Me and—?" Dan looked blank for an instant, then smiled. "I'm sure, Dad, I don't know what you've heard."

"Mother thinks Sandra's pretty sweet on you. Now don't get sore, boy. You know how mothers are. Mother'd be mighty pleased to see you make a go of that and so, I might say, would I. Sandra's a fine girl, you know. Slick as a race horse—lots of spirit. Now don't misunderstand me, Dan, but she's got lots of money. What passes for a fortune these days. Her father's a shrewd business man and he's done some smart investing. Sandra's all he's got."

Dan had turned in his chair, was looking unseeingly out the window. He did not reply.

"It would be a fine thing for you, every way you look at it," persisted the old man. "I'm not saying this without having given the matter thought." He glanced uneasily at the silent young man. "Well, I'll say no more. I won't bother you about it now. Only—the business isn't what I hoped it would be, son, to pass along to you. You've been brought up to

GOOD THOUGHTS

Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honor preferring one another; Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer; Be of the same mind one toward another.

—Romans 12

The race of mankind would perish, did they cease to aid each other. All that need aid have a right to ask it from their fellow mortals; no one who holds the power of granting can refuse it without guilt.

—Sir Walter Scott

It is the work of Love to unite mankind ever more closely, until each is working for all, and all are working for each; for one infinite Love must include all in one infinite ministry. As for reflection of divine Love is shed abroad in our hearts, we shall in case of need lend ourselves to the seemingly weak and wayward, seeking to bear their burdens.

—The Christian Science Monitor

Then, brother man, fold to thy heart thy brother! For where love dwells, the peace of God is there; To worship rightly is to love each other.

—James G. Whittier

We should not only do to others as we should wish them to do to us, but think of others kindly as we should wish them to think of us.

—Sir John Lubbock

Infinite is the help man can yield to man.

and a swinging, romantic, he-manish tale it is, too.

If you read "The Long Rifle," you'll remember Andy Burnett, the lad from Pennsylvania who took his Dan'l Boone rifle, became a fur trapper in the west, and compressed a lifetime of high adventure into a decade along the unknown slopes of the Rockies.

"Ranchero" finds Andy heading into California. The Mexican flag flies there and Americans are not welcome; but Andy makes his way, strikes up a friendship with the son of a rich Spanish landowner, establishes himself as a Californian and, in the end, is the settled squire of broad acres, a peaceful advance guard for the host that is eventually to make California part of the United States.

I don't know just why it is that this novel makes such good reading. It has abundant faults. It is often more than a little obvious. But somehow it is exceedingly entertaining.

Perhaps it is because we have already made a golden age out of that far-off era when the west was young—when those trappers like Andy Burnett, as Mr. White points out, found the west uncomfortably crowded ten years before the first "explorers" came along. Those were great days, and Mr. White has given us something of their flavor. "Ranchero" is fine stuff.
